

Míkw'achi7m - Marissa Nahanee

S̓kw̓wú7mesh & Nisga'a Nations, Eagle Clan

Cultural Coordinator, Language and Cultural Affairs, Squamish Nation

Marissa Nahanee is a Squamish and Nisga'a Indigenous Ambassador living in Eslha7an (North Vancouver). She is a member of the Eagle Clan. Her focus is on carrying traditional teachings and protocol into the modern world through her art, bringing lessons of humility, generosity, and respect. She is a Founding member of the Sustainable Diversity Network at the David Suzuki Foundation, creating opportunities to learn about Indigenous chen chen stway (elevating one another). Currently, she is working as the Cultural Coordinator for Language and Culture Affairs at Squamish Nation.

Since 2011, Marissa Nahanee provides authenticity and creativity for your all your event needs, including graphic design, corporate gifting and Indigenous talent. Nahanee, makes it easy for you to deliver a memorable experience to your audience.

(Font: Aboriginal Sans)